A principal of Stantec Architecture, Ltd., Frederick Valentine, RCA, FRAIC, has been nationally recognized for projecting his vision onto the face of Calgary while enhancing the fabric of public life in the city. Creating designs that are timeless, Valentine's work is deeply informed by structural and spatial innovations and artful problem solving.

Curated by Katherine Ylitalo, a Calgary-based art historian and independent curator, this retrospective exhibition highlights Valentine's prolific career in the respective fields of architecture and urban planning. This comprehensive survey not only focuses on his architectural projects, international influences, and preoccupations with developing a 'regional style', but also highlights Valentine's contribution to contemporary Canadian and Albertan Architecture.
